Bronte— beautiful...isn’t it?
Almost...Bronte has been part of a study into stormwater pollution. As part of the study, we surveyed you on your views, vacuumed your gutters, and examined what goes into your stormwater drains.

Did you know that stormwater drains take rainwater from our streets straight into the ocean? So when it rains, stormwater carries with it pollution from around your homes and streets — unfiltered onto Bronte Beach!

Much of the pollution we found is a result of everyday household activities.

What can you do? Simple!
- Sweep up leaves and grass clippings from your drive and street gutters and compost them.
- Remember, use your broom not the hose.
- Bin your butts and other litter.
- Always wash your car on a grassy area.

Help make our local ocean cleaner and safer.
