

S00075 – Bruce Rowlands

Tags should be stopped for owners and managers to cull kangaroos, however, permits to cull should still be in use as is now the case. It is no great drama to apply for a permit to cull, available on the internet and a stamp to post away. Permits and tags should remain the same for harvesting as well as harvesting licence regulations. As I live on a highway and kangaroos are in sight from the highway, the last thing I want is random shooters in paddocks blazing away without knowledge of where the location of livestock or people may be in that area. Thank you.
