

S00058 – Frank Watson

On my farm I have a plague of Kangaroos. I am having to spend thousands of dollars to rectify soil erosion where I have excluded sheep and cattle for the last 20 years. This is because my farm has 4000 people living on hobby farms nearby and Queanbeyan district is well known to have a kangaroo problem. To build an exclusion fence would possibly cost me say $100000 minimum. Kangaroos are now eating say 75% of my grass. Kangaroos are like rabbits and their numbers seem to have no upper limit. If you go into a super market where does that food come from?
