

S00008 – Julie Reid

- consider replacing licensing for bush regeneration and seed collection (excluding threatened species) with codes of practice

As licensing is a time consuming exercise with lengthy delays a Code of Practice would be preferable in most instances where bush regeneration is the main threat. Threatened species occur in small number on most sites I am overseeing. Qualified regenerators will identify threats and take steps to protect rather than harm.