As a license holder to harm eastern grey kangaroos, I have applied for and received 4 lots of tags.

Our situation is that kangaroos in our area are very mobile. Great numbers can appear over a couple of days, eating valuable pasture, then they move on, damaging valuable fences as they do.

A loosening of policy to enable kangaroos to be culled when they are present in large numbers and then the numbers harmed, sent through to NPWS to assist in monitoring.

NPWS fully understand that for a property owner to deal with large roo numbers requires expense and many hours spent reducing the issues that large numbers of roos can cause.

I am hoping a change will allow property owners to environmentally manage these concerns.
