

This is a reissue of the release notes originally distributed as an attachment to the BOS Update No.16 on 22nd May 2023.

The original release notes mistakenly referred to entities not listed as 'threatened' under Schedule 1 of the Biodiversity Conservation Act 2016 (NSW). Such entities are not included in the Biodiversity Assessment Method-Calculator (BAM-C). An update to the data for such species in BioNet will therefore not result in an inconsistency between BioNet and BAM-C as was previously advised in the original release notes.

The following species have been excluded from this reissue of the release notes:

- Boronia hapalophylla (Shannon Creek Boronia) – note this species was removed from the NSW endangered species list by the NSW Threatened Species Scientific Committee on 28/04/2023
- Goodenia macbarronii (Narrow Goodenia)

As a result, the following IBRA subregions have no known inconsistencies for habitat suitability and have also been excluded from this reissue of the release notes:

- Armidale Plateau
- Capertee Valley
- Upper Manning

New changes to threatened entity data in BioNet

These release notes contain details of known inconsistencies between BioNet and Biodiversity Assessment Method-Calculator (BAM-C) due to unavoidable delay in importing any resulting BioNet updates from the review into the BAM-C. For more information on how this may affect BAM-C assessments, please refer to the BOS Update No.16.

This document includes the above known inconsistencies for:

1. Updates to habitat suitability for species in IBRA subregions: Page 3
2. Updates to Plant Community Type (PCT) associations: Page 9

Updates to habitat suitability for species in IBRA subregions

Updates to BioNet data have resulted in inconsistencies between BioNet and the BAM-Calculator (BAM-C), including for habitat suitability.

In-progress BAM-C assessments occurring in the following subregions should check BioNet for updated species distribution for the listed species.
